

Design Technology -Electronics and Control Systems

The main emphasis of this course will be electronic control systems but there will also be the opportunity to explore electromechanical systems.

Computer aided design and manufacturing will be used to develop design solutions. Students will have the opportunity to demonstrate creativity, designing and making skills and critical evaluation.

Pupils will be taught about discrete and modular components, sensors, input and output devices, logic, circuit manufacture and quality control.

